Impact of recent accounting updates on the Engineering and Construction Industry

ABOUT THE SPEAKER

Mr. Philip Pong is a partner of PricewaterhouseCoopers' assurance practice with a focus on engineering, construction and real estate clients. Philip is frequently involved in advising and assisting local and multinational companies involving corporate restructuring, merger and acquisitions.

He has extensive knowledge and experience in serving engineering and construction and property investment and development clients. His major clients include Hsin Chong, HKC, Hip Hing, KONE, Swire Properties, Gammon, Chubb, COSCO Hong Kong and COSCO International.

ABOUT THE SEMINAR

There have been a number of incremental changes to standards over recent years. We highlight the main attributes and implications of the discussion paper on revenue recognition (Preliminary Views of Revenue Recognition in Contracts with Customers) issued by the IASB in December 2008 before looking at the amendments to HKFRS 7 and IFRS 3R, Business Combinations that are current effective standards. We will specifically highlight those areas that are relevant to the Engineering and Construction Industry while covering the key changes in accounting and disclosures.
